COMPANIES ARE HIRING
…but you need to act now!

Expand your search and broaden your focus. Today’s job search calls for you to be strategic and decisive. With unemployment at an all time high, it’s time to get serious. If your dream job is still available, great! But if things aren’t looking as promising in your desired industry, you may need to be flexible.

We always recommend that job seekers have a plan A and B; today we are recommending coming up with a plan C and possibly even a plan D. Research which industries are still thriving during this crisis (i.e. tech, healthcare, pharma, supply chain, grocery). Potentially consider a gap or service year (City Year, Peace Corps, etc.). There are options to explore, but you need to remain open-minded as you plan your next move.

The future looks different for all of us. We may need to re-envision the year ahead, but if you act purposefully, your career will stay on track!
